SUMMARY

The SW Idaho NARPM Vacancy Survey for Q2 2026 includes responses from 10 property management companies representing 2,122 rental units across Ada and Canyon Counties. Of these units, 835 are single-family homes and 1,287 are multi-family units.

As of June 30, 2026, the combined vacancy rate across both counties was 2.21%, with 47 total vacancies reported. Ada County reported 37 vacancies out of 1,812 units, resulting in a 2.04% vacancy rate, while Canyon County reported 10 vacancies out of 310 units, resulting in a 3.22% vacancy rate.

Vacancy rates varied by property type. In Ada County, single-family homes recorded a vacancy rate of 2.76%, compared to 1.55% for multi-family units. In Canyon County, single-family homes reported a vacancy rate of 3.79%, while multi-family units recorded a vacancy rate of 2.96%.

Rental rates continued to vary based on property type, bedroom count, and location. Overall, single-family homes commanded higher rents than multi-family units, reflecting continued demand for detached housing. Rental rates in Ada County remained strong across most property types, while Canyon County remained competitive, with comparable pricing in several categories.

Overall, the survey data indicates that the Treasure Valley rental market remains highly competitive, with low vacancy levels suggesting continued demand for professionally managed rental housing throughout Ada and Canyon Counties. These conditions reflect a stable rental market and ongoing demand for quality housing options across the region.
